Centene Subsidiary Earns NCQA Distinction

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 8, 2018 /PRNewswire/ -- Centene Corporation (NYSE: CNC) today announced that its wholly-owned Texas subsidiary, Superior HealthPlan, has earned a Long Term Services and Supports (LTSS) distinction from the National Committee for Quality Assurance (NCQA). This distinction stems from Superior's efforts in coordinating care effectively across medical, behavioral and social services to help keep members in their preferred setting.

"We are pleased that Superior HealthPlan earned this distinction from the NCQA. Our goal has always been to help provide the services and support for members that will help them stay in their homes – and in their communities – for as long as possible because we know how much this can positively impact a person's health," said Mark Sanders, president and CEO of Superior HealthPlan. "This distinction from NCQA affirms our belief as well as our commitment to providing quality care for our all of our members."

LTSS provides assistance for older Americans and those living with disabilities. NCQA's LTSS Distinction program is for organizations that provide managed health services and coordinate social services for LTSS that promote the best possible outcomes, such as independence, health and quality of life.

Superior has been offering healthcare in the State of Texas since 1999 and currently serves more than 1.2 million members through its Medicaid, Medicare and Health Insurance Marketplace plans.

"NCQA's Distinction for LTSS program raises the bar in setting high standards to encourage organizations to continuously enhance the quality of services they deliver," said Margaret E. O'Kane, NCQA President. "By earning this distinction Superior HealthPlan demonstrates it has the tools, systems and resources to provide its patients with the right care, while ensuring that care is communicated clearly and efficiently with the team of clinicians charged to manage their overall health."
